MOUNTAIN EAGLE

IT SCREAMS! Whitesburg, Letcher County, Kentucky, Thursday, March 4, 1965 Vol. 57, No. 42

This huge yellow poplar, reportedly the largest ever cut in Letcher County, was photographed in Coeburn, Virginia, in 1900. It had been hauled across the mountains by teams of oxen (seven, the best we could count) in the days before the railroad reached into Letcher County. The log was cut nearolia. For comparison of size, notice the men standing beside it. The picture is a reproduction of an old one, which was torn, and as a result detail was lost.

Yellow poplars fell early in century

By LARRY CAUDILL

Here's how went some of the patrimony of us Kentucky mountaineers:

Uncle Henry Shell of Kings-creek in Letcher County at 78 could recall the first of the big yellow poplar trees he helped to fell.

He as a stripling lad was helping his father John in the logwoods on the head of Cutshin Creek in Leslie County, well before the turn of the 20th Century.

"We axed and saved and finally got it down," said Uncle Henry.

"We saved it into 12, 14 and 16-foot lengths. For the first cut, Pa built sort of a platform for me to saw on."

"The stump was seven feet across.

"We had to split the logs to move 'em. Took four yoke of oxen to work a half log out of the woods."

Uncle Henry worked in the log-woods for 58 years. Two years, 1917 and 1918, he tried coal mining. He got hurt. He said, "Boys, I'll just make it on the outside, or I won't make it." And he went back to the log-woods.

"Once I could fell a 24-inch oak tree with a double-bitted ax in less time than two men with a crosscut saw could cut one side of it."

"George Ison once paid me $1,090 for a cut of timber that took two weeks."

"But don't let me mislead you,

Logging is awful hard work. But it isn't as hard or as dangerous as the mines."

"It's hard for people to believe nowadays but I never went to school a day in my life."

"There wasn't any school on Cutshin in those days. Book learnin' didn't seem important, I guess. When there was school it was about July and August."

Uncle Henry has been married to the former Ritter Banks, daughter of Cy Banks, for 56 years. They reared 10 children.

Uncle Henry recalled that backwoods romance. "I went to Knott County and asked for her. Cy wouldn't give her up. I told her I'd be back in two weeks."

"I went back to Lotts Creek and County to get planning grant

The Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington this week approved a grant of $22,818 to Letcher County to finance planning of a county community action program in the "war on poverty."

The Letcher County Economic Opportunity Committee originally applied for a grant of $75,000 for planning purposes, and the OEO later cut that request to $40,000. However, when the grant was announced, it totaled only $22,818.

The money will not be sufficient to hire a competent technical planning staff. But an OEO official told a member of the local Economic Opportunity Committee that local committees may seek technical advice from the West Virginia University Institute for Appalachian Studies and Development at Morgantown, W. Va., or from the Council of the Southern Mountains at Berea.

Telegrams from both Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Sen.

John Sherman Cooper announced the Letcher County grant.

The Office of Economic Opportunity also has approved a grant of $252,119 to the Council of the Southern Mountains at Berea.

West Virginia Congressman James Kee said the money will be used to finance recruiting and training of personnel for service in local community anti-poverty programs in nine states--Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Georgia.

Kee said the project will train 100 persons in a six-month period, including 21 community action technicians to be hired by the council as well as staff personnel in local communities.

Three weeks of classroom instruction would be provided, followed by field experience under supervision of trained council personnel in co-operation with Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Area bill passed

The House of Representatives this week gave final approval to the Appalachian Development Act, and President Johnson indicated he will sign it at special ceremonies in Washington Tuesday.

The measure provides for expenditure of a billion dollars in the 11-state Appalachian mountain region in an effort to bolster the area's faltering economy.

Congress has not yet appropriated money to finance the programs called for in the bill.

The bill has these principal provisions:

1. It creates an Appalachian Regional Commission, composed of the governors of the 11 states

(of which Kentucky is one) or their representatives and a federal representative appointed by the President, with the approval of the U. S. Senate. The state members of the commission will elect a co-chairman, and the federal representative also will serve as a co-chairman. Each state pays its own representative and his alternate and the federal government pays its representative and his alternate. The commission is to be responsible for developing "on a continuing basis, comprehensive and co-ordinated plans and programs" for establishing priorities under them.

Free ARH care detailed

The Whitesburg Appalachian Regional Hospital has given a total of $76,967 worth of free care to persons unable to pay for it during the past 16 months.

The hospital here ranks second in the entire 10-hospital chain in the amount of charity care it has given.

Harlan Appalachian Regional Hospital ranks first with a total of $132,845 worth of free care.

Under Kentucky welfare programs, the state pays only for the first 10 days of hospital care for indigent patients, and the hospital here has absorbed the loss in caring for patients whose illness requires them to remain in the hospital more than 10 days. Administrator Ray Roberts of the local hospital said it has never discharged a patient because of inability to pay.

The entire 10-hospital chain has given free care worth a total of $412,441 since Appalachian Regional Hospitals Inc. took over their operation in October, 1963.

This represents more than 9,800 days of free patient-care donated to persons who could not pay for it, according to Dr. Karl Klicka, president of ARH.

"This free care represents the dollar value of hospital services which we gave to indigent patients over and above those services paid for by the states of Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia," Dr. Klicka said.

"We certainly cannot refuse to continue treating those persons if they require additional care, even though their welfare benefits are exhausted. Therefore, we must absorb the cost of their hospital care beyond 10 days," said Garvie D. Kincaid of Lexington, chairman of the board of ARH. He added that the hospitals find it "difficult to carry such a heavy financial burden" and soon will launch a campaign for public contributions to share the burden of such welfare cases.

Other ARH hospitals in Kentucky provided the following amounts of free care:

Hazard, $50,264; McDowell, $30,638; Middlesboro, $32,393; Pikeville, $596; and South Williamson, $12,471. The ARH hospitals at Pikeville and South Williamson do not benefit from the state's program for the medically indigent which provides $600,000 for hospital care during the current fiscal year.

Indigent care donated by other ARH hospitals included: Wise, Va., $2,441; Beckley, W. Va., $13,073; and Man, W. Va., $747.

Miner shot fatally

A Perry County miner was shot to death this week as he returned home from his job at Leatherwood Mine No. 1.

A bullet, apparently from a high powered rifle, penetrated the metal cab of the truck which Earnest Creech, Bonnyman, was driving. It entered Creech's back and struck his heart. He apparently died instantly.

Willie Couch of Letcher, president of the Leatherwood local of the United Mine Workers of America, was one of 12 men arrested in connection with the shooting. The 12 were charged with murder.

The incident occurred at the rear of the Leatherwood mine property just inside the Leslie County line. A group of pickets, most of them former employees at Leatherwood, were nearby.

Picketing has been in progress at Leatherwood since it shut down operations after its UMW contract expired last April. The mine reopened without a union contract several weeks ago.

Perry Circuit Judge Don Ward has issued an order prohibiting further picketing at the mine

Olivier film free

A free showing of "Richard III" starring Sir Laurence Olivier, is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Saturday, March 13, in the grade school auditorium at Whitesburg. The film is the third in a series of "film classics" to be shown here free. The movies are financed by contributions by local citizens and businesses. No admission is charged.

"Richard III," adapted from the play by William Shakespeare, is the story of one of the most controversial figures in English history. It tells of the rise of Richard, Duke of York, to the throne of medieval England. The film portrays Richard, a hunchback, as a wicked king who killed the young heirs to the throne by having them imprisoned in the Tower of London and murdered there. More recently, historians have begun to question whether Richard was so wicked as Shakespeare and others have portrayed him, but the Shakespearean picture still is the one generally accepted.

The film is directed and produced by Olivier. It is in color. It has been called "the best acted picture that has ever been produced."

Three additional movies scheduled in the "film classics" series can be shown only if additional contributions are received, according to Mrs. Thomas Plaut, who has served as chairman of a group of Whitesburg residents sponsoring the series. Others which may be shown if enough donations are received are "All the King's Men," the story of Huey Long of Louisiana; "The Marriage of Figaro," an opera by Mozart, and "Alexander Nevsky," a Russian drama.

Contributions may be mailed to "Film Classics," care of the First Security Bank or The Bank of Whitesburg.

Joins hospital staff

Dr. William H. Potter is now on the active staff of the Whitesburg Appalachian Regional Hospital as a surgeon, the hospital announced this week.

Dr. Potter is associated with the Daniel Boone Clinic. He will be here more than 50 per cent of his time. He also is on the staffs at hospitals in Lynch and McDowell. He frequently travels from one hospital to another by way of his private helicopter.

Dr. Otis Santos of Brazil is on the hospital staff as a resident in the Appalachian Regional Hospital training program. He is a resident in surgery. Dr. Santos will be here until July.

Other new additions to the hospital personnel are Jack D'Ambrosio, formerly of Albuquerque, N. M., pharmacist; Mrs. D'Ambrosio, a registered nurse; Miss Sarah Potter and Miss Judy Carroll, aides, and Fred Baker, housekeeping staff.

Coffey House sold

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poloskey of Whitesburg this week took over operation of the Coffey House, a downtown Whitesburg restaurant.

The Poloskeys have purchased the restaurant from Mrs. Fred Coffey and Mr. and Mrs. Cossie Quillen, who had operated it for the past three years.

Poloskey said the name will be retained. The name of the restaurant was changed from City Cafe after Mrs. Coffey and her husband, the late Fred Coffey, and the Quillens bought it from Mrs. Clara Williams.

The Quillens will continue to operate Quillen Drug Co. here. Poloskey said he would not operate his poultry house this summer but would restock it with layers next fall. He is one of several Letcher County residents who have entered the egg production business in the past two years. His present flock was quit laying, he said, and he plans to dispose of it and wait until fall to restock his poultry house.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT BOARD PROTESTS PROPOSED BUDGET CUT

Members of the Board of Supervisors of the Letcher County Soil Conservation District have written Kentucky senators and congressmen to protest a proposed cut in the federal budget for soil conservation districts.

The letters make three points: 1. The cut would slow down soil and water conservation efforts on private land in the United States and would reverse a 30-year policy established by Congress that makes technical assistance available to landowners without charge. The cut would break faith with state and local governments. 2. The cut would penalize the small farmer, who could not pay for technical advice, and this would slow down the conservation program.

3. The cut would slow efforts to reduce water pollution, one of the country's greatest problems today, because erosion is still a dominant factor in stream pollution.

J. D. Maggard is chairman of the local board. Other members are Burzilla Adams, Boyd Gilley, Harry M. Caudill, Willie Dixon,

Role of education in developmental change in East Kentucky to be discussed at college

A University of Kentucky Centennial conference, planned around the theme, "The Role of Education in Developmental Change in Eastern Kentucky," will be held March 12 at the University of Kentucky Southeast Community College in Cumberland.

The event will open at 9:50 a. m. with a keynote address by former Governor Bert Combs. He will speak on "Changes in Eastern Kentucky."

During the morning session, Dr. A. Lee Coleman, chairman of the University Department of Sociology and Rural Sociology, will outline and discuss the definition of the theme; Dr. Thomas R. Ford, also of the UK Sociology Department, will speak on "Some Major Changes in Our Society and Their Implications for Education" and Dr. Grant Youmans, UK rural sociologist, will discuss "Educational and Cultural Factors."

The afternoon session will open with an address by Dr. L. R. McGee, a UK economist. His subject will be "Economic Factors in Eastern Kentucky Development."

Climaxing the conference will be a panel discussion on desirable developmental changes in Eastern Kentucky. Dr. Coleman will serve as moderator. Panel members will include Harry Caudill, Whitesburg lawyer and author; the Rev. C. Lynn White, Harlan; Dr. James Cawood, Harlan school superintendent; Dr. John Dodson, Union College Graduate School director; Miss Sharon Bach, a student at the college, and Burton Rogers, director of Pine Mountain Settlement School.

609 households certified for stamps

A total of 609 households with 3,050 persons has been approved to receive food stamps in Letcher County, the local office of the Department of Economic Security said this week.

Food stamp coupons were issued to 76 families, including 351 persons, as the program got under way here Monday.

According to the Department of Economic Security, the 76 families who received stamps Monday purchased $1,672 worth. That figure represented the amount of money they normally could have been expected to spend for food at local stores this month. In addition they received a total of $2,864 worth of free coupons, making a total of $4,536 worth of coupons. A total of 126 grocers has been authorized to take part in the program.

Court repays city

Letcher Fiscal Court this week voted to pay the City of Whitesburg $825 to repay the cost of repainting and sanding the floors in City Hall.

The building was used as a temporary circuit courtroom during the time the courthouse was under construction, and the county had guaranteed to put it back in to good shape. The city spent about $450 in addition to the amount paid by the county, Councilman Lee Moore said.

The crisis deepens in Eastern Kentucky

A sense of impending great tragedy hangs over the coalfields of Eastern Kentucky today as both coal operators and coal miners fear the fatal shooting of a miner at Leatherwood this week might be the signal of an all-out shooting war worse than anything ever seen in the bloody mountain coalfields. It is a time of deep crisis.

The return to violence has been clearly foreseeable for the past couple of years as tensions have increased in the often four-cornered ring of union miner, non-union miner, union coal operator, non-union coal operator. There has been much talk among all factions of arming themselves, each to protect himself from the others. There has been little if any talk of working out a solution with which all might live.

Now the first fatal shot has been fired, and the widow and nine children of Ernest Creech weep for him. It happens that Creech was a non-union miner who went through a picket line to get to his job in the Leatherwood Mine No. 1 of the Blue Diamond Coal Company. But the first victim just as easily could have been a member of the picket line, or a coal operator. And their widows and children would be mourning them.

The cause of it all is complicated, sometimes oversimplified in the words "automation" or "cybernation." It embraces such things as residual oil, atomic energy fired electrical plants, unit trains, new mining techniques both above and below ground—a national advance in technology that has left far behind both the coal operator and the coal miner in Eastern Kentucky. The situation is not necessarily the fault of either the miner or the operator. And both today find themselves arming to wage a war not of their choosing.

If blame must be placed on someone, then we should start somewhere back with President Truman and continue through with Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson. For the situation here is no overnight development but is a disease that has been allowed to spread through two decades of national indifference.

It is true that national interest has turned somewhat to Eastern Kentucky the past few years, and that interest has resulted in something called "the war on poverty" and the "Appalachian Development program." But both programs as they have unfolded have proved to be hollow shams, concerned with creating images of solutions rather than with finding the solutions themselves. And we have had commodity foods, food stamps, the jobless father program, retraining programs, school lunch programs, the welfare program and other half-hearted props by the dozen—almost all totally ineffective, degrading to the unemployed. All in all, a large package of proof that the United States does not yet know how to deal with basic economic and sociological problems.

And we have had frustration and despair to a degree that is beyond reckoning.

We suppose the ordinary coal mine picket has some thought that his activities might lead to unionization and a magical solution to all his problems. But we suspect most know better. Instead, the picketing and the violence represent a protest—a protest against the degrading business of commodities, the often hardhearted and blind political abuse of welfare "cases"—a protest against the jobless fathers program and all the lack of governmental intelligence it represents—and above all, a protest test against the continued emptiness and failure of state and federal promises of help for Eastern Kentucky.

Decades of abuse and neglect, of defeat and despair, have worn the veneer of civilization so thin that it threatens at any moment to split, allowing total chaos to reign. There is much similarity between the situation here and that which exists today in Mississippi and Alabama—the major differences being that we are white and they are Negro and that violence is our heritage while submission is theirs. But even the southern Negro submits no longer.

The time has come for the federal government to recognize some of the essential facts about Eastern Kentucky and the colossus called Appalachia.

The coal industry is here. It will remain here for the next century. It is the basis of the economy of Eastern Kentucky and is likely to remain so. It is nonsense to pretend solutions can be found the area's economic woes totally outside coal, the black heart of Eastern Kentucky.

Now, the coal industry is plagued by too few mines and too many miners. So long as there are more miners than there are jobs, pressures upon the wage scale will remain great and general economic conditions must fall to the lowest possible denominator. Remove the labor surplus and you mostly remove the labor unrest; for persons successfully employed in other industries are not pickets at the coal mines nor are they competitors for the coal miner's job. Provide alternative employment for the surplus of miners, and you are on the road to solution.

This could be done through comprehensive utilization of coal mined here in Appalachia for the production of mine-mouth power to be shipped by transmission lines up and down the Atlantic coast. A hundred-billion dollar industry could be developed, producing undreamed of wealth and prosperity for the Appalachian area. That this idea is quite feasible is demonstrated by the fact that American Electric Power Co. already is beginning to use mine-mouth power—and the feasibility has also been thoroughly proved in studies made by Lockheed Missile and Space Corp., the Department of the Interior, the American Public Power Association and the National Rural Electrification Co-Operative Association.

Such a program could provide immediate employment for many thousands of men through its construction and operation. And thousands of additional miners could be employed to mine the coal needed for the new market. Automatic retention of a fraction of a cent per kilowatt of electricity produced could finance for the Appalachian area the nation's finest schools, parks, highways, hospitals and other basic facilities.

The alternative to such a program is simple: Direct subsidization of the coal industry by the federal government, with more stringent controls to eliminate abuses by the relatively few coal operators whose bandit-like practices blacken the name and the reputation of the entire industry.

Coal is almost the only basic national industry that is not now subsidized by the federal government, and the thought that the same might be done for coal should cause no shudders of horror in anyone. As a start, Uncle Sam might provide the operating capital to enable groups of a dozen or so small coal operators to merge together into a large, economically competitive unit equipped with the latest machinery and the finest working standards and conditions.

Continued failure of the federal government to find solutions instead of demoralizing handouts can only lead to continued violence and a further decline in living standards that already are being held up to international evaluation as the horrible example of the failure of American institutions.

CURRENT COMMENT:

'Gentleman Bird'

"February was the month when we not only had Lady Bird and Lynda Bird, but also, courtesy of Victor Borge, 'Gentleman Bird.' And it was, generally speaking, a hard month for LBJ. First we couldn't criticize him because of the assassination and the fact that we didn't have anybody else. Then we couldn't criticize him because he was doing his best and anyway there still wasn't anybody else. Then, during the campaign when we finally did have somebody else, we still couldn't criticize him because of that somebody else. And finally, after the election, we couldn't criticize him because he was against disease and poverty and for education and motherhood."

"The Churchill funeral, however, changed it all overnight—or, rather, the 'executive flut' changed it. The way we see it, McNamara gave it to the President, the President gave it to Dean Rusk, Dean Rusk gave it to Douglas Dillon, Douglas Dillon gave it to Hubert Humphrey, and Hubert Humphrey gave it, for heaven's sake, to Lucius Baines. Senator Monroney had a cold, Senator Russell had a cold, Senator Kuchel had a cold, and then Senator Keating came down with a cold—and he wasn't even a senator any more. But the one who took the cake was Texas Congressman Wright Patman. He proudly announced he had a cold 'just like the President's.' Frankly, we were surprised he admitted it; we didn't think there was that much to be proud of. We were over in Europe during the month and over there, we assure you, they're convinced we're either the most ungracious nation in the world or else the most susceptible to colds."

A fine art: THE MOUNTAINEER HAD HIS OWN WAY OF MAKING WHISKY

By LARRY CAUDILL

No compendium of information on our pioneer Kentucky mountaineer ancestors would be at all complete without a small treatise on what has sometimes been called their highest skill, or art--the making of whisky.

Now there are thousands of ways, of recipes, of procedures, for making whisky and 99 44/100 per cent of them produce bad whisky. That is why it is called by many names--moonshine, mountain dew, mule-kick, rot-gut, etc.

The basic ingredient may be corn meal or mule feed. The fermenting agent may be given a boost by sugar, molasses, yeast, even gaseous carbide.

I have asked a thousand mountaineer men whom I knew to have had experience to tell me in detail how to make corn liquor. All of course told me a different way.

I didn't ask any chemists and I sought out not the master distillers of the big distilleries.

I wanted to know the simplest way my pioneer ancestors made whisky.

They didn't know any chemists. They couldn't read and write so they couldn't figure out a chemical formula.

Now my great-grandfather, W. J. Caudill, was known as "Still Bill," because he was a legal distiller, under license by the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

His product was sold legally, openly. The quality was determined by competition and the opinions of his patrons, who were connoisseurs of corn--the flavor, the effect and the hangover.

Still Bill was not bothered by the U. S. Pure Food and Drug Act. He was a master distiller in all but the formal title and the paycheck.

I have been told that his prime product sold at a wholesale price of 50 cents a gallon.

To those who would imply that Great-Grandpappy did some retail business on the side, I am compelled to say that Still Bill was an honest man. It was the custom in those days. Being honest was in practice the best way of doing business.

This is not to say that Great-Grandpappy was niggardly.

If you sat down to dinner at Still Bill's house, there was apt to be a water glass beside your plate and a jug was handy from which you could pour your own appetizer.

The Europeans could have their family wines and other peoples their various potions at table--our Kentucky mountaineer preferred the pure essence of corn distillation.

The Kentucky mountaineer's public image too often has been identified with moonshining. As a matter of truth the moonshiner was in the extreme minority in the mountain community. But he was an artist, he was picturesque and thus became symbolic.

This does not presume to be an authoritative treatise on mountain liquor, although my experimentation has been extensive over the years. Too much of it was on inferior products obtainable in big cities like Atlanta and Louisville. So it is doubtful if I could qualify as an expert witness on liquor before Commonwealth's Attorney Emmett Fields and Circuit Judge J. L. Hays.

They probably would call me widely experienced but not sufficiently connoisseur. I'd drink anything.

Nor am I an expert on the making of corn whisky, but I can tell you of my own expedition into making corn liquor.

I was a teenager. I was the associate and flunky for Uncle Jim (known as my drinkin' uncle). After a courtin' visit on Rock-house Creek I was walking homeward.

A shadowy figure emerged from the weeds ahead of me and shambling down the railroad track with saddle pockets over a shoulder.

For want of a nail

Letcher County has lost its first battle in the war on poverty--a battle to obtain enough money to hire enough competent, trained community planning experts to help the county set up a community action program under the federal Economic Opportunity Act.

The Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington announced this week that it has granted the county $22,818 to finance planning work for its community action program. It is obvious to even the most casual onlooker that the money is not enough to make more than the slightest stab at setting up a complicated program detailing the county's needs and its plans for combating poverty.

But, an OEO official says, the county can ask for help from the Council of the Southern Mountains at Berea or from the West Virginia University Institute for Appalachian Studies and Development. Of course we may ask--but getting the help we need is an entirely different matter. The Council of the Southern Mountains is an organization of dedicated people, and we have the highest respect for the ability of its staff. But the Council would be the first to admit that it operates on a shoestring budget (it is so poor it cannot even afford a movie projector to show films of Appalachia) and that it is obligated to spread itself over a much wider area than Eastern Kentucky--its obligation is to the entire Appalachian mountain region. The West Virginia University Institute we do not know, but it seems obvious that its first obligation is to West Virginia. And this week the institute announced that it had hired Keith Kelley, formerly head of the University of Kentucky's Eastern Kentucky Resource Development Project at Quicksand, to its staff. The Quicksand project has been rather spectacularly unsuccessful in its efforts to aid Eastern Kentucky, and if the same thinking is to apply to the WVU Institute, there is little hope of effective help from there.

Eastern Kentucky already is the victim of too little competent planning spread too thin. The City of Whitesburg, for example, has a contract for planning assistance with the Kentucky Department of Commerce. On paper this is fine, but in actual practice the local Planning and Zoning Commission considers itself very lucky if a planner gets here for an hour's visit once every six months. This pattern has existed for the past five years, and there is little reason to expect it to change now.

So here we sit. The rest of the county can relax, secure in the belief that the government is at long last doing something to help the people of Eastern Kentucky, that the Appalachian Development Act and the Economic Opportunity Act together will provide answers to our problems and food for the bellies of our hungry children. How long will it take the rest of the nation to realize that actually neither one of them even begins to change the situation? Maybe five years--maybe ten. The question is whether we can survive that long.

We wish President Johnson would take as much interest in fighting the war on poverty as he appears to be taking in fighting the war on North Viet Nam. We wouldn't even care if the attacks were secret, so long as they accomplished their objective.

There even is a chance that an all-out war on poverty could eliminate the need for an all-out war on North Viet Nam. We just might win the fight against communism with examples of successful democracy in action rather than with proof of our military power--and the victory might be a more permanent one.

MOTHER PROBABLY KNEW BUT ALL SHE SAID WAS 'TAKE 'EM TO THE RIVER AND CLEAN 'EM' (from Page 4)

I recognized Uncle Jim. Said he was going down to Blackey on a little business but was going right back over the mountain to help John Campbell a few days layin' by his corn.

I was sure I knew what was in the saddlebags and guessed what kind of work Uncle Jim planned to do back across the mountain. He asked if I would like to go with him. I agreed.

GAS FRANCHISE ORDINANCE
CITY OF NEON, KENTUCKY

ORDINANCE NO. 59-A

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING A GAS FRANCHISE TO THE HIGHEST AND BEST BIDDER WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF NEON, LETCHER COUNTY, KENTUCKY, BUT RESERVING THE RIGHT TO ACCEPT OR REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE BOARD OF COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NEON, LETCHER COUNTY, AS FOLLOWS:

That there be, and is hereby granted the right, privilege and franchise to construct, operate and maintain within the City of Neon, a gas system and system of mains to furnish gas to said City of Neon and its inhabitants.

NOW, THEREFORE, in order to carry into effect the purpose for which this franchise is granted, this ordinance is subject to the following stipulations, agreements and conditions, viz:

The right to use the public streets, avenues, lanes and alleys within the city limits of the City of Neon, Kentucky, for the purpose of laying mains and pipes through which to conduct natural or artificial gas for a period of twenty (20) years.

The sale will be made for cash in hand at date of sale, but the amount so paid shall be returned to the successful bidder in case said sale is not confirmed by the Board of Council, and on the following additional conditions:

The sale of franchise herein contemplated shall be made by the City Clerk of the City of Neon, who is hereby commissioned to duly advertise said right and privilege for sale in three (3) consecutive issues of the Mountain Eagle, a weekly publication of Whitesburg, Letcher County, Kentucky, and on March 13, 1965 (Saturday), on which day, between the hours of 12:00 o'clock noon and 2:00 o'clock P. M., he shall, at the front door of the City Hall in this City, offer at public outcry, to the highest bona fide bidder, for cash in hand paid, the right and privilege of using the streets, avenues, alleys and lanes of said City of Neon for the purpose of conducting, conveying and transporting natural or artificial gas, or both, in pipes for public and private use in the City of Neon from the date of said sale for, and during a period of twenty (20) years.

The purchaser of said franchise and his associates, successors and assigns shall have power under it to open said streets, avenues, alleys and lanes for the introduction of pipes and mains for the purpose of carrying and distributing said natural or artificial gas under all the restrictions and provisions hereinafter contained.

That all excavations made by purchaser of this franchise, his associates, successors and assigns, for the introduction of such pipes and mains for the purpose aforesaid, shall be made with the least practical inconvenience to the public or individual and with all reasonable dispatch; that all damage to streets, sidewalks or other public places by and on said excavation shall be repaired by said parties at their own cost and without unnecessary delays. If said parties shall fail or neglect to make the necessary repairs within a reasonable time from the date of making such excavations, then the city may remove or repair the same, at the cost of said parties, and said parties shall be responsible for all injuries or damages to persons or property occasioned by a want of care in opening, or keeping open, closing or repairing, or in any other manner unnecessarily, carelessly or negligently obstructing said streets, avenues, lanes or alleys for the purpose aforesaid.

That should said purchaser or assigns fail or neglect to exercise the right and privilege herein granted on or before March 13, 1967, or fail in supplying said City and its inhabitants with said natural or artificial gas for the purpose aforesaid, or fail or refuse to comply with the provisions herein contained, then, in such event, this grant and franchise, and all rights, benefits and privileges that have inured, or may inure, to said purchaser or their assigns, shall be forfeited and wholly void.

If after a period of months it becomes evident that gas cannot be obtained, then in that event the purchaser of this franchise will grant all the rights herein contained back to the City in order that the City may be able to sell the franchise to purchasers that are able to supply said gas.

That said purchaser or their assigns, in delivering gas, shall not discriminate against consumers within the corporate limits of the City of Neon, and will not discriminate against consumers three (3) miles above and three (3) miles below said city.

That no street, alley or lane shall, at any time, be so obstructed as to prevent ordinary travel of same.

That the right shall be reserved by the city for the City Engineer, or any other engineer employed by the City, to designate at what distance from the curb line said pipes shall be placed, and the same shall be placed below the frost line, and all work, including the laying of mains, shall be subject to the approval of said city engineer. It is further agreed, as a part consideration for the granting of this franchise, that the purchaser will, at all times, maintain said equipment, mains and pipes, in a safe condition and that any leaks or unsafe conditions that may exist in said mains will be immediately repaired.

That all excavations shall be protected by guard rails and at night by signal lights. That a good and sufficient bond, in the amount of Twenty-Five Thousand ($25,000) Dollars, be given by the purchaser or his assigns before work under the franchise shall commence, conditioned to hold the city harmless by reason of any accident or litigation growing out of any negligence or want of care in excavation, operating or obstructing, opening or keeping open and maintaining the streets, alleys and lanes in a safe condition for the traveling public, and that the same will be restored as soon as the pipe lines are laid in as good condition as they were prior to the making such excavations. That said purchaser will, at all times, carry sufficient insurance to protect the inhabitants of the City and its property owners during the continuance of this franchise.

It is further understood that the successful bidder shall furnish, free of charge, gas to the Neon City Hall.

This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its adoption and publication.

This ordinance was adopted on the 15 day of February, 1965.

Mayor, City of Neon

ATTEST:
DUWARD BANKS
Clerk, City of Neon

I waited while he went on, collected for me some work clothes and left word that we were going on a fishing trip.

It took us till daylight to reach an isolated cove deep in Hodang Hollow--the still site. He camped in the shelter of a cliff.

I began to learn the process of distilling. On a big flat rock was drying a supply of corn, barely sprouted. This was moved into a trough hollowed out of a popular log. With hammering by a wooden maul the corn was "ground" in the trough.

It was put into the mash barrel with the proper amount of water, to ferment into mash.

Meantime a barrel of mash was ready for the copper still.

The still was fired up and now came the meticulous part of the operation. The fire had to be kept at a level which would produce a steady steaming of the still.

Uncle Jim was apt to have a good supper of cornbread and raw streaked sowbelly meat and onions, take on a few snorts of his own product, curl up in the leaves under the cliff and snore profoundly, leaving me to tend the still.

The cap was sealed on the still with blue-clay mud. I was against letting the still pressure get too high--might blow off the still cap.

Inevitably, I put too much wood on the fire and dozed. There was a loud bal-loom; bang, bang,--and the still cap went rattling up through the limbs of the shielding oak tree.

Uncle Jim rolled out with a roar, recovered the cap and clapped it back on the still. Not much damage was done.

The "run" was finished by Friday. We each took two gallon jugs of the produce and came out of the woods near what was once known as the whirlhole.

We hid the jugs in leaves at the roots of an uprooted tree.

From the same hiding place Uncle Jim took a trot line. We stretched it in wadable water at the lower end of the whirlhole. We worked the shoal rocks for grampus and crawfish, engaging them in our hats. We shed our clothes and baited up.

By daylight our catch was two heavy strings of blue and channel catfish. We headed for home and came to the kitchen door.

Now, it seems entirely likely that the folks figured we were up to something more than fishing. But until this day it has never been mentioned. Mother looked at them, handed us a dishpan.

All she said was, "Take 'em to the branch and clean 'em."

'65 CHEVROLET

These great performers are the lowest priced models at our One-Stop Shopping Center

Top to bottom: Chevy II 100, Corvair 500, Chevelle 300, Chevrolet Biscayne. All 2-door models.

Each of these beauties is the lowest priced in its line. But the ride doesn't show it. Or the interior. Or the performance.

That luxurious Biscayne is as roomy as many expensive cars, has color-keyed interiors, plush vinyls, fine fabrics, full deep-twist carpeting.

Chevelle, America's favorite intermediate-size car, has clean new styling, wide doors, roomy, tasteful interiors and Chevrolet easy-care features.

Chevy II got a lot smarter for '65--but stayed sensible! Still family-size, easy to handle, economical, and the lowest priced Chevrolet you can buy.

Or get a sporty rear-engine hardtop in a Corvair Sport Coupe or Sport Sedan for fun in the months ahead.

Chevrolet, Chevelle and Chevy II are available with the Turbo-Thrift Six for fuel economy, quick warmups, quiet idling. It's light, efficient, smooth and spirited.

Corvair's air-cooled rear-mounted Turbo-Air Six delivers the best balance and traction for this size car.

So be practical. Only you will know. Because it sure won't show!

NOTICEAPPLICATION FOR REAPPORTIONMENT OF JUSTICES' DISTRICTS

Comes now representative citizens of Dry Fork and Kingdom Come, Letcher County, Kentucky, and apply to the County Court for reapportionment of justices' districts under the provisions of KRS 25.680, 25.690 and 25.700.

Applicants state that they desire to have Dry Fork and Kingdom Come, now a part of Magisterial District No. 1, transferred to Magisterial District No. 3, but that in all other respects the magisterial districts should remain the same.

Applicants state that the reapportionment is necessary in order to more properly equalize the magisterial districts by population and geographical area and for the further reason that the present magisterial division works an extreme hardship upon the citizens of Dry Fork and Kingdom Come inasmuch as they are required to travel to Whitesburg, Kentucky, to transact their business with the magistrate; and that if their area was transferred to Magisterial District No. 3, the magistrate for such district would be more readily available to them for the transaction of business by reason of the close proximity to the magistrate in District No. 3.

Applicants request that the court immediately appoint three commissioners who shall be over 21 years of age and reside in different parts of the county and in different justices' districts, to reapportion the county, keeping intact the present three magisterial districts, but transferring Dry Fork and Kingdom Come only from District No. 1 to District No. 3 so that all of the justices' districts will be as nearly equal in population and territory as possible; that said commissioners should within 20 days after their appointment lay off the boundary lines of the districts and file in the office of the County Court Clerk a written report showing the boundary of each district and the estimated population and size of each.

Applicants state that they have this date posted copies of this application on the bulletin board at the Letcher County Courthouse and in three public places in each justices' district of the county. There is also attached to the original application a list of applicants which shall be on file in the Letcher County Court Clerk's office.

Dated this 9th day of February, 1965.

LETCHER COUNTY COURT IN RE: APPLICATION FOR REAPPORTIONMENT OF JUSTICES' DISTRICTORDER

Pursuant to application filed herein February 9, 1965, it is ordered that Troy Stampler, Whitesburg; James Wright, Payne Gap, and Bryant Dixon, Blackey, be, and they are hereby appointed Commissioners to examine into Magisterial Districts Number 1 and Number 3, for the purpose of transferring from District Number 1 to District Number 3, the Dry Fork and Kingdom Come voting precincts in Letcher County, Kentucky, and determine the feasibility thereof, based upon population and equalization and other considerations set out in KRS 25.680 etc. and according to law, and report their actions therein within 20 days from date hereof, and file the same in the Office of the Letcher County Court Clerk showing the boundary of each District and the estimated population and size of each.

Dated this 1st day of March, 1965.

CROWS AND CARDINALS PROVIDE CONFUSING SIGNALS AS TO WHETHER SPRING HAS FINALLY ARRIVED

By MABEL KISER

While we are enjoying our warm sunny days the crows and redbirds confuse us just a little. The crow with his caw, caw says spring is here. The redbird in his colorful flight says winter is still here and we will have more snow. We will just be agreeable with both of them—take the snow with the redbird and accept the spring with the crow when the flowers begin to bloom.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Holbrook of Kona are visiting in Florida this month.

How time flies, and what changes it makes! Last week the Bill Sergents had their youngest son, Ronnie, down from Lebanon, Ohio, for a visit. It seems that just yesterday Ronnie was a small boy in grade school, but today he had with him his wife and their son, Ronald Jimmie. Ronnie has been a teacher of science and math at Lebanon Junior High School for three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Daniels were on Millstone last week to visit old friends and to attend the funeral of Mrs. John Reynolds. The Daniels lived on Millstone for many years before moving to their new home in Paintsville.

We congratulate Enoch Collier on the 84 summers he has enjoyed. Last Sunday the children all gathered at the old Collier home place to have dinner with Dad and to help him celebrate his birthday. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Collier, Jay, David and Billy; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collier and son, Steve, all of Pikeville; Mr. and Mrs. Don Collier, Belinda Rae and Sandra Kay of Irvine; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collier of Beaver; Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Collier of Mayking; and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Collier of Millstone. Mr. Collier is very alert and enjoys company. We all love to hear him talk about the old days. I love to hear him tell of the large splash dams that used to float our timber out to market. This was the only way of moving large logs down to the "Blue Grass" area, as we had no large trucks then.

Little Peggie Nichols of Seco is doing fine after an appendectomy at the Jenkins hospital. Mrs. Letha Holbrook Collins is doing fair after surgery recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Johnson (Janet Meade) are here to stay. Gerald will work in the Royal Crown Cola plant at Ermine.

Folks hereabouts are beginning to enjoy cookouts this month. Enjoying such a feast Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Cotton Hoskins and son, Arville, and a friend, Miss Anita Evans.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Meade drove to Lexington over the week end. Our son, William Harold, called us from Valley Station, and we talked to the grandchildren too. At first Michael, 2, listened un-

Fleming-Neon MRS. ACKER'S PARENTS ARE VISITORS

By Mrs. Jim Revis
Phone 855-3841
Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Sutherland of Richlands, Va., have been visiting their daughter and family, Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Ackerman of Fleming, but have returned home.

Paul D. Smith of Alice Lloyd College was in Neon over the week end visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Mack Bentley. With him was an exchange student, Richard Shubart, who said he really liked Eastern Kentucky and that he would like to come back some day.

Judge and Mrs. J. B. Gooch enjoyed Sunday dinner with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gooch of Neon.

Miss Vickey Ann Stewart celebrated her 10th birthday Saturday with a party at her home in Fleming. Those present included Harvey Brook, Gary Broome, Gail Riley, Paula Meade, Ernestine Hill, Shearer Kay, Johnny and Susie Smith, Debbie Hogg, Beckie Tackett, Hubert Gibson, David Stewart, Beverly Richardson, Alice King, Carma Mason and Dorcas Varson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Fleenor and daughters Mary and Sue of Logan, W. Va., visited his parents over the week end. They also visited her mother in Tennessee.

Sorry to learn that Mrs. Eula Fleenor has been sick and bedfast for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mason and Carma and Mr. Hillard Bates all went to Harold, Ky., to visit Mrs. Mason's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sturgill and Rose Ann.

Vernon Seals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Seals, and Miss Teresa Ann Candler, daughter of Mrs. Christine Hall Candler, were married in Clintwood, Va., on Saturday, February 27. They were accompanied by Mrs. Seals and Mrs. Candler.

Miss Wanda Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Allen, and Mr. Lonnie Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rush Stewart, were married recently.

Sondra Jill Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Blair, formerly of Neon and Fleming, was a January 29 graduate of the Redford High School in Detroit, and has enrolled in a downtown Detroit finishing and modeling school. Jill is well known in the area as a dancer and teacher of dancing, and will give two recitals this spring. Another former Letcher Countyman, Bill S. Huffman, a Michigan state representative, sent her a congratulatory telegram upon her graduation. Jill is the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blair of Fleming.

Rev. Tom Mullins of Wurtland, Ky., held a revival at the Whitesburg Church of God this week. Sunday night he left for a minister's meeting in Louisville. He is pastor of the Church of God in Wurtland. Mrs. Mullins and two sons have been staying here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Waddell, Fleming, while he is away.

Cornelius Cornett has been here from Louisville visiting his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cornett, and friends.

Sammy Waddell, who works for the state police in Hazard, was home this week end visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Waddell, Fleming.

Our sympathy goes to the family of Mrs. Melvina Wright, 78, who took sick during the night Tuesday and died in the Whitesburg hospital. The funeral was held in the Pentecostal Church of God, where she has been a member since 1919. Burial was in the Fleming cemetery. Mrs. Wright was survived by six sons - Bob of Fleming, Arnold of Springfield, Woodrow of Ceretta, W. Va., Ray of Pine Bluff, Arkansas, and Stanley and Dan, Jr., of Detroit. Banks and Craft Funeral home was in charge.

Our sympathy goes to the family of Mr. David Gray, 57, of Cromona, who died Tuesday. Funeral services were held at the Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Haymond, and burial was in the Fleming cemetery on February 28. He was survived by his wife, Mrs. Carrie Gray, and by seven sons and four daughters. Banks and Craft was in charge of arrangements.

Glad to hear that Johnny Wise is home from the hospital and doing fine - as are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nagay Wise. Also on the sick list but doing better are Wilma Holbrooks and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Wright. Sharon Riddle Mohn isn't much better and will go to the Pikeville hospital for a checkup soon.

GAD JOHNSONS' CHILDREN VISIT THEM

By Mrs. Jim Revis
Phone 855-3841
Mr. and Mrs. John L. Johnson of Lexington have been visiting his parents, the Gad Johnsons, this week end. The John Johnsons both work for the College of Agriculture at the University of Kentucky. The Gad Johnson's daughter Yvonne, also home for a visit, is employed by the medical center at UK.
Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnson, whose home burned recently, have moved into the block store building next to their former home and are remodeling it. Neighbors say it certainly is looking nice. Sorry to hear that Mr. Johnson has been ill for nearly three weeks with influenza. Our sympathy goes to Mr. and Mrs. Logan Rice, who received news of the death of their daughter in Tennessee.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Wright attended church at the Hemphill Regular Baptist Church and heard the preaching of Bro. Matt Justice, Carter Amburgey, Andy Bates and Eppie Holbrooks. After church the Wrights had dinner with Mrs. Myra Wright, along with Mrs. Rosa Wright of Neon and Mrs. Becky Quillen of Hemphill. Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred V. Adams were Quillen Tackett and Matt Justice.

Mrs. Richard Anderson has heard that her daughter, Mrs. Emma Gummoe of Lorain, O., is seriously ill. Mrs. Anderson will go there to take care of the children while Mrs. Gummoe is in the hospital.

daughter of Cincinnati, Ohio, were home from Saturday until Tuesday visiting his parents in McRoberts and her mother and sister, Mrs. Lexie Nelson and Joyce of Fleming. I enjoyed talking over old times with them Monday. She was one of my old friends and classmates. Her sister, Joyce Quillen, is moving to Neon. Welcome to our town. Aunt Emily Anderson and her granddaughter, Ola Faye, visited the Sherman Wrights of Fleming Saturday.

Daniel Brewer, who has finished vocational school training as a mine repairman, left for Louisville where he will take a physical at the Ford plant. He has a job there if he passes the examination. His wife and three children will stay with her father, Allen D. Bevins, for about two more weeks and then go to Louisville to be with her husband. Carter Brent, son of Mr. Allen D. Bevins, left Monday for Ashland to take a physical for the army. He leaves a twin brother, Marshall Kent, at home. Mrs. Bonnie Davis still is in the St. Joseph hospital in Lexington and is doing some better.

There have been a couple of incidents here recently, both apparently involving juveniles. Sunday the Garden Restaurant was robbed. Clarence Anderson was fixing the fire in the furnace when he heard the cash register ring. Anderson called Chief Jim Revis, who apprehended a 14-year old boy and took him to jail.

Saturday night, some musical instruments were stolen from the Neon band building. Chief Revis got a report the instruments were on a hill at the Fleming graveyard, and he found them on the ground there and returned them to the band building.

Clara Fay Smith
gets Berea degree

Miss Clara Fay Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Williams of Florence, was one of 48 Berea College seniors who received bachelor's degrees at the end of the first semester.

Miss Smith, a 1959 graduate of Letcher High School, is majoring in nursing.

SHEEP PARTICULARLY ADAPTED TO KENTUCKY FARMS

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Because of the potential for sheep raising in Letcher County, we reprint here the report of the Governor's Commission on Agriculture on sheep.)

FRANKFORT - Sheep numbers in Kentucky have declined from over 1,000,000 head in the early 1940's to the present number of approximately 200,000 head. Most significant is the fact that numbers have declined more than 50 per cent in the last six years. In our opinion, some of the factors contributing to this decline are as follows:

1. Unfavorable prices in relation to beef during the period from 1959-1962;
2. Chronic problems such as parasites and foot rot. Many of these have been blamed out of proportion in relation to their actual impact, and can now be controlled;

3. Many farmers were making enough money from tobacco and other cash crops and did not want to spend the time a flock of sheep requires.

It is the opinion of this committee that many of the problems that are often associated with the sheep industry are not as serious as many would think. Furthermore, recent market trends have made the sheep business more profitable than many other agricultural enterprises. Many Kentucky sheepmen received as high as $175 income in 1964 from the five ewes that are considered to be equivalent to one animal unit, or one cow.

In addition to the favorable market price that sheep are likely to have for the next four to five years, they have several other advantages that particularly adapt them to our Kentucky farms.

Sheep are essentially non-competitive in their requirements for labor and pasture. The peak labor requirement with a sheep flock is in the winter months when most of our farms have little to do. Also, our Kentucky spring lamb requires grass only when it is abundant. During the fall months, when our feeder calves require good quality grazing, the ewe flock can be maintained on the poorest pasture. Our tobacco barns are empty by lambing time, and can be converted into excellent lambing barns.

Sheep also give us both a quick return and a high return on our investment. In less than one year from the time a yearling ewe is purchased in the summer, she should return at least $30 in lamb and wool, as compared to her initial cost of approximately $25.

Our committee strongly believes that the sheep industry will increase substantially in the next few years, and that careful planning is needed to make sure that good management practices and improved quality and promotion of our products of lamb and wool play an important role in the return of our farms to sheep. Some of our recommendations have already been put into action. Others need immediate action. We have also made several recommendations with long-range plans for the future in mind. The following are some of the recommendations we respectfully submit in our report:

1. Sheep producers need to reorganize into one official organization for Kentucky. The Bluegrass State Sheep Association held its organizational meeting on January 28 in Lexington. Officers have already been elected for 1965. We strongly urge you to become a member of this association and work with us. Our association hopes to accomplish some of the following objectives:

A. Promote the consumption of lamb and wool in Kentucky, in cooperation with the American Sheep Producers Council. Kentucky sheep producers are contributing over $20,000 annually to the American Sheep Producers Council, yet none of this money is being spent in Kentucky since all of their local promotion programs must be sponsored by state sheep associations. Up to now, we have had no active state sheep association.

B. An effective state sheep association could represent a unified sheep industry in legislative matters of common concern. Some examples are the revision of our state Dog Law, encouraging our representatives in Congress to support the present tariff level on wool and to protect us from excessive lamb imports, and informing sheep producers on such matters as the 1965 vote in Congress to retain the National Wool Act.

C. An effective state sheep association could support 4-H and FFA sheep projects and shows, and could also establish a Master Shepherd program to recognize outstanding sheepmen and publicize good management practices.

2. We recommend that communications be improved between western replacement ewe dealers and Kentucky producers. Several thousand more replacement ewes could have been sold last year if western producers had kept them back for us. With this in mind, this committee has conducted a survey in every county in Kentucky to determine this year's anticipated demand for replacement ewes. The information obtained in this survey has already been relayed to western ewe producers and dealers.

3. We strongly urge the extension service and vocational agriculture to cooperate with us in getting our young people interested in raising sheep. We recommend that information be publicized on the profit in sheep farming. (Continued on Page 13)

Millstone (fr. p. 7)

til he recognized our voices, and then he talked a lot.

Mr. and Mrs. James Buttre and their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. David Jones, all visited Mrs. Buttre's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Collins, Sunday.

Mrs. Owen Pigman was up from Whitesburg last week for a visit with Mrs. Martha Jane Potter.

Mrs. Potter took her for a drive around this area Sunday, and she visited with some old friends, including the Ben Franklins.

Sol Meade is still a patient in the Veterans Hospital at Johnson City but is doing fine.

Mrs. Lula Webb in West Virginia is still critically ill. Her daughter, Mrs. Goldie Webb Aldridge, is still with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eld Wright and daughter Anneatha, and Mr. and Mrs. Fossil Johnson, all of Jenkins, and Mrs. Curtis Collins of Kona called on Mrs. Martha Jane Potter Sunday. The Wrights and the Johnsons are planning to build new homes and were looking at the new Potter home.

Mr. and Mrs. Essie McGray visited in Irvine last week end and also did some shopping in Lexington.

Iva Lee McGray and daughter and Imogene Reynolds, who recently went to Killen, Texas, called one night last week when the snow was flying and said they were enjoying balmy 88-degree weather.

Week-end guests of the Lloyd Meades were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Green, and their children, Mark and Sherry Lynn, and Mr. and Mrs. abd Mrs. James Arnold Meade, all of Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. John Polly of Kona were calling on Mrs. Martha Jane Potter last week.

Sunday dinner guests of the C. B. Passes were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hall and their niece, Nancy, of Lexington, Ohio.

Miss Anetha Hall was the guest of Rebecca Pass Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reynolds and their children, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Reynolds, all visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sparks at Mayling after attending Little Rock Baptist Church at Kona.

Visiting with John Reynolds Sunday were his daughters, Geneva and Jamea, from Hazard.

Miss Louise Sexton and Kirby Rose were married in Clintwood, Va., last week. Louise is the daughter of Elder and Mrs. Felix Sexton. Kirby is the son of Andrew Rose of Payne Gap. His mother died several years ago. The couple will live on Millstone.

Blaine and I attended the funeral of Maryland Amburgey on Carr Creek Sunday. It was held in the Old Carrs Fork Regular Baptist Church. I never fail to come away sad when I visit Carr Creek. I see so many folk that I used to know, and time has wrought great changes with us all.

LEAF REFERENDUM DRAWS 18 VOTERS

By CECIL R. CAUDILL

The burley tobacco referendum held during the worst weather of the season, last Thursday and Friday, was definitely a success as far as voting in this county was concerned. Out of an estimated 21 eligible voters, 18 persons voted.

All 18 votes were in favor of continuing the marketing quota program for the years 1965, 1966 and 1967.

The 1965 Feed Grain program sign-up began February 8, and will continue through March 26. Participation in this program is on a one-year basis. Farmers who have a Feed Grain base established for their farm, based on the acreage of corn produced during the years of 1959 and 1960 and have received a notice for this year are eligible to participate.

To participate in the program, a farmer must come to the ASCS office before March 26 and file an intention to divert (take out of production) corn land for the 1965 crop year. The farmer must decide how much corn he will or will not produce this year when he files his intention to participate. If he diverts less than 40 per cent of his total base acreage he will be paid a lower rate per acre than if he diverts 40 per cent or more of his base. Once he files an intention, it can be changed only before March 26, unless he decides to withdraw from the program entirely. For withdrawal he will not be obligated unless he has received an advance payment. Withdrawals shall be in writing and filed in the county ASCS office.

When a farmer signs his intention to participate in the Feed Grain Program, he may receive an advance payment which amounts to about half of the full payment if he desires. The amount of this payment will depend on the number of acres he intends to divert.

Farmers who participate have certain obligations which in most cases can be met with little difficulty. No crops can be harvested from the diverted acres this year. Neither can this acreage be pastured between April 30 and November 1, 1965. The acreage diverted for which a farmer is to be paid must be devoted to one or more types of conserving vegetative cover; weeds must be controlled and other measures to control erosion, insects and/or rodents shall be carried out where required.

Because this is a one-year program, these obligations cease as of December 31, 1965.

finished my house. I bought me a No. 6 step stove, built a bed, chairs and a table. I got me some dishes and pots and laid in provisions.

"I went back. Waited till dusk dark to get word to her.

"Her uncle, Will Banks, made to take her to stay all night at his house. I was there a- waitin'."

Uncle Henry's handsome old face broke into a grin, "By mor-nin' we was eatin' weddin' break-fast on Carrs Fork."

The huge virgin yellow poplars were almost all gone a few years after the turn of the 20th century. I recall seeing the rotting stumps in the woods as a boy on Deep Hole branch of Leatherwood Creek in Perry County. It seems to me they were four to six feet across the stump. Once brother Fred and I sat quietly at the upper fence of a cornfield and watched two groundhogs come from the den under the stump, climb upon it and play for an hour in the spring sunshine.

Nearly all the virgin trees are gone from the Kentucky mountains. One, a giant white oak, fell to the ax on the top of the Elk Creek mountain near Black-ey in the fall of 1964.

It stood in the old Dixon grave-yard which dates back to the early 19th century, according to the headstones.

The Dixon family decided to remove the tree. A crew of the unemployed fathers, cleaning up the graveyard, undertook the task.

When they finally felled it, the ing and on good management practices, and that this information be relayed to our 4-H and FFA members. We also recommend that market lamb shows be established in 1966 in the Owensboro, Louisville, Lexington and Flemingsburg areas.

4. We recommend that the Kentucky department of Agriculture make a critical study of our state wool marketing structure to determine the reasons for decreased market prices on our wool in relation to surrounding states.

5. The sheep committee wishes to support the following facilities needed by the Department of Animal Science, University of Kentucky, for stronger sheep research, extension and teaching programs: The proposed meats, nutrition and physiology of reproduction laboratory, and the proposed animal science teaching arena.

6. The sheep committee recommends increased producer support of the Sheep Evaluation Station on Goldstream Farm, University of Kentucky.

We realize that many of our goals are ambitious, but with help, we think the sheep industry can and will return to its proper place in Kentucky's agricultural economy.

stump measured nearly six feet in diameter. They guessed the tree's age, tried counting the annual sap rings.

"Out two feet from the heart the rings were so close together and indistinct we gave it up," said Austin Miller. "But surely it was over 200 years old."

Virgin tree specimens such as that actually should be preserved as shrines in these mountains.

But we have been thoughtless and profligate of our priceless heritage of trees.

Perhaps that is another reason I am an angry Kentucky mountaineer.

TO THE VOTERS OF LETCHER COUNTY:

Many of you already know me, as I have served you four years as jailer, four years as sheriff and eight years as magistrate. I feel I know your problems. Not that I can solve all your problems, but we can by working together make a better county to live in and rear our children in.

I will work with your commissioners, whenever they may be, to do a good job. I know one man cannot do the job himself. We can get a delegation together and go to Frankfort or Washington and make our needs known to our governor and Congress and get help to build new roads in our county.

Letcher County does not get enough money to build new roads across mountains and cliffs and have any money left to keep the roads we are using in repair.

I promise the people of Letcher County that we will spend the money first by keeping the roads we have in repair so we can travel at all times. Then if we have any money left, we can work on new roads. When the county tries to build new roads, the people it is trying to build the roads for don't have any roads, and neither does anybody else for all other roads are neglected.

So let us keep the roads we have repaired so people can get to town to pay their taxes and shop. We will all feel better about paying our taxes when we know we are getting results. I will work with the commissioners and our good citizens to get the state and federal government to build roads throughout the county because they are the only ones who can do this, and our county can keep what roads we have in good repair.

The fiscal court should work together with leading citizens to get industry in Letcher County. I have in mind a pulp or paper mill set up in a convenient place in Letcher County which would employ several persons plus give our Letcher County people who own timber a place to sell it. Also more men would be employed getting the timber out and delivering it to the mill.

Also on anything else that will help the people of our county, I will consult with all good citizens of the county on these things, not just with a special few.

I will be your servant, not your ruler.

I have no other interest in business other than to help the people of Letcher County and can spend all my time on the job.

Mrs. Friend died at 10:50 a. m. March 4 at Prestonsburg.

She was born in Letcher County and was a daughter of Spencer and Rachael Adams. She was the widow of Herbert Lawrence Friend. Survivors include a son, Spencer Friend, Seymour, Ind.; a daughter, Beulah Friend, Cowan; a brother, Mack Adams, Jenkins, and five grandchildren.

Cherries flavor cake

To make a tasty, colorful dessert using red tart cherries, spread cherry pie filling between two layers of white or yellow cake. Add just enough cherry juice to whipped cream to tint it pink--or fold finely-chopped red tart cherries into sweetened whipped cream--and frost top and sides of cake.

Little sparks...

burn great forests

Common sense is all that stands between controlled burning and full-scale forest fires. Before you start any fire, check local regulations... Be sure fires can't spread... Never burn on dry or windy days... and never leave fires unattended. Nine out of ten forest fires are caused by careless people. So don't be careless.

- Before you start any fire:
1. Follow the local regulations
 2. Be sure fire can't spread
 3. Don't burn on dry or windy days
 4. And never leave fire unattended

Please!... only you can prevent forest fires

SPRINGFIELD GROUP 'FILLS ORDERS' AND DELIVERS THEM TO NEEDY FAMILIES IN THE BLACKKEY AREA

A dozen of the Ohio patrons of Blackey's well-known Operation Springfield came back for a visit last week end.

They included Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Farris, Henry Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Husted and daughter Michelle, Jim McGee, Mrs. Catherine Ortiz and Mrs. Lu Roberts.

The party brought a truck cargo of food and clothing for needy families, this time under a different method of operation.

Needs and sizes of families, prepared by the Blackey committee, were given to the group at Springfield.

The "orders" were filled and packaged in Springfield and came to Blackey ready for the designated families to pick them up.

The Springfield group and the Blackey group, under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Lundy Adams and Larry Caudill, decided to see if this might be a more effective and smoother way of operation.

The Ohioans came to Blackey on Christmas Eve with a tractor-trailer cargo of Christmas gifts.

The visitors were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Lundy Adams and other members of the Operation Springfield Committee on their three visits to Blackey.

Mrs. Orville Dixon visited her mother, Mrs. Martha Bailey of Ulvah, in Whitesburg hospital.

Pearl Dixon is home after treatment at Lexington for a back injury.

Get-well card comes from Lewis Potter and family in Perry, Ohio, readers of The Mountain Eagle, probably transplanted Letcher County Potters.

Prevent forest fires

Four years ago when I announced as a candidate for County Judge I said that I would work to secure a new courthouse, to obtain a section of the Mountain Parkway for Letcher County, to build a scenic trail on top of Pine Mountain, to secure a new fishing and recreation lake; to obtain new library facilities and to get the county into shape so we could pay our bills on time. These things we have been able to do.

Great tasks still are ahead. If you honor me by selecting me as your judge again, I will work to get everything we can out of President Johnson's Appalachian program and Economic Opportunity program, to bring about completion of the parkway all the way from Whitesburg to Campton, to rebuild US 119 all the way through Letcher County and on into Harlan County and to rebuild US 23 all the way through the county. These are things we can and must do.

I will have more to say about Letcher County's problems and opportunities and what we can do about them in the weeks ahead. Meanwhile, I want to thank you for the opportunity you have given me to work with you for the advancement of Letcher County during the past four years.

JAMES M. CAUDILL

It will conduct and sponsor investigations, research and studies and will sponsor demonstration projects "designed to foster regional productivity and growth." It will encourage the formation of "local development districts" and encourage private investment in industrial, commercial and recreational projects. It will serve as a co-ordinating unit for Appalachian programs, provide a forum for consideration of problems of the region and proposed solutions and establish and utilize citizens and special advisory councils and public conferences. It will advise the Secretary of Commerce on applications for grants for administrative expenses to local development districts.

It may recommend the expenditure of funds by federal, state and local agencies in the fields of natural resources, agriculture, education, training, health and welfare, and other fields and it may recommend whatever additional legislation it deems necessary.

The federal government will pay full administrative expenses of the commission for the first two years, and then the states and the federal government will share equally. The federal government may not spend more than $2,200,000 for administrative expenses.

All decisions by the commission shall require the consent of the federal representative and a majority of the state representatives. 2. The Act sets up five new programs:

A. The Appalachian Development Highway System--authorizes construction of 2,350 miles of development roads and 1,000 miles of access roads (to serve recreational, residential, commercial, industrial and other facilities or to facilitate a school consolidation program) on a federal-state matching basis. The federal government's share may not exceed 70 per cent of the total cost.

Kentucky is expected to get about 450 miles of these roads, including a modernization of US 23 and US 119, completion of the Mountain Parkway from Whitesburg to Campton and some improvements to Ky. 80 in the Somerset-London area. However, the exact location of road work to be done in Kentucky will be decided by the commission after it is established. Not to exceed 10 per cent of the mileage is to use coal derivatives in road building.

The bill authorizes appropriation of $840,000,000 for road construction. This is the major item of money in the bill.

B. Demonstration Health Facilities--authorizes grants for the construction, equipment and operation of multi-county demonstration health facilities, including hospitals, regional health diagnostic and treatment centers and other facilities necessary to health. The bill authorizes a total of $41,000,000 for such construction; the federal share may not exceed 80 per cent.

The bill authorizes grants of 100 per cent of the operating costs for the first two-year period of operation of the health facilities and up to 50 per cent for the next three years. After five years, the facilities are on their own. The bill authorizes expenditure of a total of $28,000,000 for operation of health facilities.

Apparently the bill will not help the struggling Appalachian Regional Hospitals, since they are already built and in operation, but funds could be used to build competing centers. No final decision has been made on this, however.

C. Land stabilization, conservation and erosion control--provides for individual or collective agreements with landowners, operators and occupiers for land stabilization, erosion and sediment control and reclamation through changes in land treatment and conservation and development of soil, water, woodland and wildlife resources, all to be done in co-operation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Grants may not exceed 80 per cent of the cost, and the acreage involved must not be more than 50 acres for each owner, occupier or operator.

Funds under this section may not exceed $17,000,000.

D. Timber Development Organizations--provide technical assistance in the operation and organization of private timber development organizations having as their objective the carrying out of programs to improve timber quality and productivity and the establishment of non-profit corporations to provide physical consolidation of small timber holdings or administrative consolidation for efficient management. Not to exceed $5,000,000 may be spent for this purpose.

E. Mining area restoration--provides for expenditure of up to $36,500,000 for reclamation of strip-mined publicly owned lands.

There is very little publicly owned land in Eastern Kentucky which has been strip-mined.

F. Water Resource Survey--provides up to $5,000,000 for the Army Corps of Engineers to prepare a comprehensive plan for development and utilization of water resources in the Appalachian region. The bill says the plan may recommend measures for flood control and generation of hydroelectric power, etc., but specifically prohibits expenditure of funds to finance the cost of facilities for generation, transmission or distribution of electricity.

3. The bill provides for supplementation and modification of these existing programs:

A. Vocational Education Facilities--authorizes $16,000,000 for grants to provide construction of vocational school facilities where they are not now available.

B. Sewage Treatment Works--authorizes $6,000,000 for grants for construction of sewage treatment facilities but does not authorize any funds for construction of water systems or sewer systems, badly needed in many Appalachian towns.

C. Amendments to Housing Act of 1964--authorizes use of federal funds for planning housing for the Appalachian region.

D. Supplements to Federal Grant-in-Aid Programs--authorizes expenditure of $90,000,000 for use by local communities in meeting matching requirements federal programs for which they are eligible but cannot supply the matching money necessary. In no event may the federal share exceed 80 per cent.

The act requires each state to keep its expenditures in the affected area up to previous levels.

No program may be undertaken in any state without consent of the state.

The bill makes available a total of $5,500,000 to pay administrative expenses of local development districts but no grant may exceed 75 per cent of the total expenses. Local contributions may be in cash or in kind.

Only states, their political subdivisions or local development districts may apply for projects under the Appalachian Development Act. Each application must be made through the state member of the commission, and he shall evaluate it for approval. It must have his approval before it is approved by the commission.

Two precincts ask changes in districts

A group of voters in the Dry Fork and Kingdom Come precincts of Letcher County has asked Letcher County Court to order that the two precincts be moved from Magisterial District No. 1 to Magisterial District No. 3.

County Judge James M. Caudill has named three commissioners to look into the situation and report to him by March 20. The three are Bryant Dixon, Troy Stampler and James Wright. Each lives in a different magisterial district.

After the commissioners make their report Caudill will hold a public hearing on their recommendations.

The petitioners said the change would make a magistrate more readily available to residents of the two precincts and would provide a more equal distribution of population represented by each of the county's three magistrates. Stanley Hogg, who also is county attorney, is attorney for the voters.
